MEMORANDUM AND ORDER

Defendants have failed to respond to an action claiming that they wilfully and without authorization displayed a closed-circuit telecast of the Holyfield v. Lewis prizefight. Plaintiff moves for default judgment. That motion is granted.

Plaintiff also moves for statutory damages and attorneys' fees. The report indicates that approximately 40 patrons were in the establishment. Plaintiff assumes a capacity of 150, the license fee was $17.50 times the capacity, and plaintiff asks for a multiplier of seven, for a total of $18,375. While a multiple is necessary to serve as a deterrent, we think a factor of five is adequate for that purpose. And we think it improbable that the bar was less than a third full in the circumstances. A capacity figure estimate of 100 is, we think, generous. We award statutory damages of $8,750 and attorneys' fees of $500,
